to-day's market was of an exceptionally Northern Pacific...... to-day's market was of an exceptionally "good" character, not only of stocks, but of bonds, and that in good part it represented apparently investment purchases delayed from the first of the month. Presumably the strength of to-day's market was caused by over Sunday consideration of the general facts of the present financial situation, which are unquestionably such as to result in optimistic views concerning the future of values.

Again to-day financial sentiment was helped by a proper amount of thought-taking of last Saturday's magnificent bank statement, which placed the actual surplus reserve at the highest figure, with but two exceptions, in the last ten years.
Further encouragement was derived from the fact that there is every promise that the fact that there is every promise that the new tariff bill will be passed within the new tariff bill will be pa little more than a fortnight's time, the indications being that the conferees between the Senate and the House on the matter will have less difficulty in reaching an agreement than has been come. monly supposed.

It seems to be also accepted as likely that the tax on corporations provided for in the bill will be heavily reduced, and that the additional tax on corporation holding companies, as now provided for, will be entirely eliminated.

All reports regarding business in general that came to hand to-day in the usual Monday summaries were of highly welcome tenor.
